Location of the Rural Villa in Mallorca

In a wonderfully quiet, wooded area between the bustling Manacor and the narrow streets of Felanitx, the elegant Villa "Da Na Bibiana" offers just the right thing for a holiday with high standards, with all rooms en-suite. The tranquil village of Son Macià - a convenient 20 minute drive away - offers a supermarket, a bank, and cafes to cover all your basic needs; for more, just drive around 10 km in either direction. The coast between Porto Cristo and Portopetro invites you to take a stroll and to discover the gorgeous beaches of Cala d'Or, Cala Bota, and Cala Pilota.

Detailed description

You're going to have to dig a little deeper into your pockets to afford this high-class "pretty woman", but with a top-class villa with as many extras as "Da Na Bibiana" has, you can expect to pay a tidy sum. Majestically, she defends her hill(s) with a long driveway so that unwanted visitors - by the way children are also very welcome here - don't get too close or disturb her guests' peace - but her widely dispersed neighbours value their privacy as well. As open and forthcoming as the villa - which even has a tower - appears to be, you really don't expect there to be any big surprises waiting for you inside. Apart from the terrace, equipped with exquisite rattan lounge furniture and a long dining table, the L-shaped saltwater pool with its own mini-garden stands out; the pool is reached via a playfully laid stone path across the lawn, which guides you safely to the broad steps leading down into the pool. Sun loungers and parasols await you on the pool deck with sweeping views of the green Mallorcan landscape. If you like, you can explore the grounds on foot, perhaps on a nice after-dinner walk. You might be needing a walk after experimenting on the fantastic gas BBQ, which for many is the perfect place to get their culinary juices flowing.

The big surprise "Da Na Bibiana" has in store is, of course, the charmingly designed courtyard complete with an antique well in the sunny spot in the middle – three of the four en-suite bedrooms are accessible from here (the fourth one has the tower one floor higher all to itself). This way you can enjoy air and open space, towards the courtyard as well as to the garden or even towards each one's own terrace; large animal skins lie on the floor, comfortable armchairs offer a relaxing retreat, natural stone elements give the rooms their certain something and XXL double beds promise undisturbed sleep. A walk-in wardrobe has also been hidden in one of the rooms. The private, pastel-coloured bathrooms are comfortably appointed, some with a double washbasin, bath, walk-in shower, and towel warmer – especially when on holiday, you don't want to have to share with others; instead, you want to be able to move at your own pace. The large, Asian-inspired living area with a flatscreen TV and a fireplace is also a favourite feature: an ideal spot for whiskey-fuelled conversations with the guys, while the ladies make themselves comfortable outside on the wicker chairs with a glass of wine or prosecco. The only thing to clear up is who's on kitchen duty, although to call it simply a kitchen doesn't really do it justice: it's an open plan, stainless steel wonder, complete with a milk frother, food processor, hob covers, juice mixer – everything at your fingertips! In here, perhaps even a dedicated fast food aficionado will become maestro de las ensaladas! Son Macià is treasured by people who value exclusivity and relaxation on their holiday, far away from the crowds, but at the same time do not want to miss out on being close to the sea and the promenade. Hidden dream coves like Cala Virgili, harbour towns, and hot spots are found along the east coast; seeing and being seen is part of an enjoyable holiday. You should visit the small town of Felanitx on a market day (your BBQ needs stocking up!) And go to Manacor's pedestrian zone to hunt for shoes; Rafael Nadal's trophies can be admired at Sport Xperience – many a sports fan will be excited to see the Formula One cars, Ryder Cup golf bags, or Olympic ace Michael Phelps's swimming trunks. And if you like hiking, Mallorca's very own Tuscany, between Cas Concos and Calonge has a lot more to offer than just a big field...
